

WALK-OVER FOR McMILLAN

Former Governor Easy Winner
In Field Of Five In Tennessee.

PRESTON CAME IN SECOND

In General State Goes Democratic By Twenty-Thousand.

Nashville, Aug. 2.—Incomplete and unofficial returns from all over the state indicate that ex-Governor Benton McMillan is the democratic nominee for governor by a handsome majority. Hon. T. R. Preston ran second, with Faulkner probably third, Crabtree fourth, and Tyne fifth.

While the size of Governor McMillan's majority will not be definitely known until complete returns are received, it is evident that he made a splendid race, and easily outdistanced all competitors. His vote was confined to no locality or grand division, which accounts for the big total he rolled up.

At McMillan headquarters here it is claimed that the ex-governor has carried seventy-five of the ninety-six counties of the state, and has polled 60 per cent of the entire vote cast.

In the general election Judge Felix W. Moore, the democratic nominee, was elected to the court of civil appeals over his opponent, Judge H. N. Cate, republican nominee. Judge Moore's majority is estimated at 20,000. He carried the majority of the counties of Middle and West Tennessee and the democratic counties of East Tennessee.

Garden Party.

A very delightful social event was the garden party this week, given by Mr. John L. Rickman and his sister, Miss Virginia at their home, two miles from town.

The lawn was lighted with many colored lamps and the house very artistically decorated in sunflowers, the color scheme, yellow, being carried out in the refreshments.

The host and hostess were assisted in receiving their guests by their charming little house guests, Misses Douglas and Martha Lander, of Pembroke. Misses Hallie May Dillman and Inez Whitlow, of Pembroke, presided at the punch bowl in the dining room.

Contests during the evening added much to the merriment of the occasion and much jolly rivalry was provoked by some of these. Miss Douglas Lander receiving the highest prize, Miss Katherine Whitlow the second while Mr. Lucien Moseley was forced to search for the booby prize. There were a number of out-of-town guests and the young people made merry until a late hour.

Stanley's Newest Bill.

Washington.—A bill by Representative Stanley to define more specifically the term "misbranded," as used in the pure food law, was reported favorably by the House Commerce Committee.

The measure would make it illegal to sell any drug under the name of some other article; make compulsory the printing of the quality or proportion of alcohol, morphine or other narcotics in drugs offered for sale; and prohibit the printing on labels of false curative or therapeutic claim.

In Solitary Confinement.

Henry Youtsey is in solitary confinement at the State penitentiary, for violating the prison rules. He is said to have written letters and had them smuggled outside the prison walls and he refuses to tell who aided him. He will be kept in confinement until he divulges the names of his accomplices.—Georgetown Times.

BLIND FORTUNE TELLER

Out On Clarksville Pike Kept Busy All the Time.

If anybody imagines that "Blind Mary," the fortune teller, is not a magnet, they are mightily mistaken. Our information comes from a man who has "been there"—yes, been there twice, and he may go there again; not that he believes in the old blind negro's power to read the future, but he went with a friend who does, or is willing to give her a chance.

But there are hundreds of people here who have consulted the woman, but whether or not they were satisfied is another question.

When the party referred to was out there last Wednesday afternoon he found a swarm of humanity seeking light from the woman who claims to be able to tell of things to come. He counted thirty-nine men and ladies in the yard and grouped about the premises, all patiently awaiting their turn. Many others, like the gentleman spoken of, had previously had a day and hour fixed for a revelation of hidden things, but so busy was Blind Mary that other times had to be fixed. The question with some of them was, doubtless, "If the delay lasts much longer what will Blind Mary have to tell me?" The cost is only 25 cents, and the quarters are certainly rolling in the fortune teller's direction, whether she has superhuman vision or not.

KENTUCKY STATE FAIR,
Louisville, Sept. 9th-14th.

PROF. W. D. NICHOLS TO SPEAK HERE MONDAY

To Address The Farmers At The Meeting Called For Organization.

Prof. W. D. Nichols, of the State University, Lexington, will address the farmers at one o'clock p. m. Monday, at the meeting called for the purpose of organizing an industrial association of the agriculturists.

Prof. Nichols is a speaker of ability and will give particular attention to Seeding Wheat and Curing Tobacco. There will be other speakers also. The farmers of the county are urged to attend this meeting and take part in it.

LOCAL PARAGRAPHS

Will Brumfield, the largest market gardener in this section, says he has raised but two crops this year—strawberries and cabbage. Though he has been worked nearly to death, his other crops of "garden truck" and a little too near the danger-line to make a fellow over hopeful.

Brick laying was begun on the Cooper picture show building last Thursday morning.

The concrete floors in the two new rooms in the Hopson block will be completed in a couple of days—in fact that in the smaller room is already finished. The double room, to be used as a storage house for Cadillac automobiles, will require a day or two more for the concreters to finish up.

Next Monday will be county court day. The first Monday in August was the old-time election, when primaries and conventions were unknown and every man had a right to run for office that wanted to without putting up his littlewad for the privilege, and free for all fights were the fashion and the first load of watermelons was brought in, and a man had the right to say who he voted for. But how things have changed since the importation of an English puzzle commonly known as the Australian ballot.

Wonder if the people who have seen so many flights in Judge Prows's flying machines that they have become commonplace, really know the test a man has to undergo to become a licensed aviator? If you have been thinking of making a bird out of yourself, remember that the rules require that you shall be twenty-one years old, you must have made a flight of fifty miles, must fly to the height of 2,500 feet, shut off your motor and glide to a point not more than 328 feet. Are you ready?

Why is Hopkinsville like wine? She "improves with age." From the best information obtainable the city is now in its 115th year. "How fast the young thing grows!"

The katydid has spoken and says we will have frost September 15th. The tobacco will be out of the way by that time.

The soldier boys will be home by Monday if they don't get here by tomorrow night.

HOUSEBREAKING

Charge Against Negro Placed
In Jail.

George Willie Gray, col., was arrested at Gracey Thursday, charged with housebreaking. Gray was brought here and lodged in jail. His examining trial will be held some time next week. The negro is accused of breaking into the house of another negro on the farm of Mr. W. H. Boyd, near Newstead.

Death of Beautiful Child.

Evelyn Nelson, the nine-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Penick, died July 25, after a two days' illness of cholera infantum. The body, accompanied by the family and friends, was taken to Elkton, the interment following in Glenwood cemetery. Messrs. Joe, Bernice, Everett and Caldwell Penick acted as pall bearers. The deepest sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents.

There is nothing to report about tabernacle entertainments.

Somebody wants to know what is the plural of "Moose." Ask something hard. Why should they take on another syllable or even another letter? Just write it like you would "deer, m-lasses, or sheep." The plurals around Hopkinsville are not very plentiful, or they are contented to stay pretty much in the back-ground.

Not long ago—less than a week—no, just a week ago today—Hiram Thomas was talking about organizing a company to buy land to get up an old-time county fair, the company to be capitalized at $150,000. He was sitting in his car beside a very attractive young lady, when John Edmunds came up. Mr. Edmunds was given a chance to be a stockholder, which he accepted quicker than you can say "seat," but he said, as he stepped into the car and took a seat beside another equally attractive young lady, "Make it $250,000 capitalization." This was willingly agreed to, but somehow the originator of the laudable undertaking has not seen proper to let the press know how he is getting along with the work of securing subscriptions for stock. A man's environment often inspires great ambition that fades away with the passing of the day, and we are rather inclined to the belief this fair company, like many others, has died a-borning, though we wish it were otherwise.

The seasons are out of joint and have been all the year. Morpheus has held a carnival lasting a week or more, and his devotees have been as happy as one can be, knocking it off at a two forty rate and rising in the morning fresh as a lark. Here it is the third day of August and the nights are as cool as if it were the first of October.

The first load of home-grown melons was brought in last Thursday. The price resembled the upward flight of a flying machine—almost out of sight.

Thus far there has not been any want of room in the Bull Moose band wagon in Hopkinsville and the driver's name has not yet been positively made known.

BRUTAL BARBARITY.

Fiendish Cruelty of Colored Children To One of Their Number.

The 3-year-old daughter of Andrew Barker, colored, of the southern portion of the county, is said to be in a most serious condition as the result of the brutality of three or four other children. The child strayed away from home over to a neighbor's cabin. There she was terribly beaten with sticks by the other children, the skin being broken in several places. Lime, salt and turpentine were then rubbed into these places and even forced into her mouth. When found the child was unconscious. Medical attention was given and it is believed the child will live.

WOODROW WILSON'S

ADMINISTRATIVE ABILITY.

Woodrow Wilson.

During his campaign for Governor it suited his political opponents to describe him as a man who had led a cloistered life so that he was unfamiliar with affairs and was wanting in administrative ability. Such a notion seemed very grotesque to those who knew Woodrow Wilson. It altogether misconceived the nature of a university president's work. The post calls for administrative ability of a very high order, and incidentally brings about contacts and acquaintanceships that put one in personal touch with all great national interests, whether business or political. The administrative problems that may engage a university president's attention involve men of exceptional ability and force, so that controversies, if they arise, are more than usually formidable.

Woodrow Wilson possesses in a singularly high degree the great administrative faculty of prompt apprehension of the true nature of a case, so as to disengage it from the irrelevant and adventitious and to guide discussion to sound conclusions. Whatever might be the matter coming up at faculty meetings, whether through a committee report or a chance motion, his mind seized it at once, stating the case clearly and bringing out all its elements for consideration. At times he took an active part in debate. The speech he made in introducing the preceptorial system has become a faculty tradition as a model of perspicacity and force. His quickness of apprehension was also marked whenever he took part in a conference or was present at a committee meeting. No matter how complicated the subject, his mind seemed to bear effectively upon it at once, cutting into it like a circular saw into a knotty log. His apprehension extends to the points of view of all concerned, and he is particularly happy in removing differences by promoting clearer understanding. From "Woodrow Wilson—A Character Sketch," by Henry Jones Ford, in the American Review of Reviews for August.

It begins to look like the El Paso police will have to be sent over the line to restore quiet in Mexico.

PRIMARY HELD TODAY.

First Official Primary For Nominating Officers In Kentucky.

BOTH PARTIES MUST ACT.

No Contests In This County Or District.—Fights In Four Districts.

The official primary election for nominating candidates of both parties will be held throughout Kentucky today. The only name on the ballots in Christian county (except in four precincts) is that of A. O. Stanley, who will be nominated for Congress the sixth time without opposition. There is a magistrates' contest in the Pembroke district.

There are Congressional contests in the First, Third, Fourth and Eighth districts for the Democratic nominations, all of the old Congressmen except Ollie James being candidates to succeed themselves.

The polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 4 p. m. and only qualified voters can participate. The officers are divided politically and all returns are as in regular elections.

Saloons are required to close.

INSTANT DEATH

Caused By Sudden Attack of Cerebral Thrombosis.

Joe Winroe col., butcher for Mr. N. Stadelman, died suddenly Tuesday, aged 65 years. He had been sick about three weeks, but a sudden attack of cerebral thrombosis caused death, which was instantaneous. Winroe came here from Bellevue about twenty-five years ago and had since been engaged in business as a butcher and was considered an expert in his line.

FOUND DEAD.

Colored Laborer Expires Suddenly At Home.

Henry Bowling, a colored laborer in the employ of the Forbes Manufacturing Co., was found dead in bed at his home on Howe street Tuesday morning. The supposition is that death was caused by heart trouble. Bowling was 40 years old and a native of Todd county. After an inquest the body was taken to Pembroke for interment.

Long Balloon Race.

"Uncle Sam" proved a winner again when the balloon at that name, piloted by Capt. H. E. Honeywell and assistant of St. Louis, landed at Manassas, Va., near the historic Bull Run battlefield, having defeated all other entries in the elimination race from Kansas City to decide which three Americans should take part in the international balloon contest to start from Stuttgart, Germany, Oct. 26, next, for the James Gordon Bennett trophy.

Capt. Honeywell and his aide, Roy F. Donaldson, spent thirty-five hours in the air, and as the crew flies, covered a distance of 925 miles.

Allowing for the fact that their course from Kansas City to Manassas was roughly in the shape of a crescent, the airmen estimated that they sailed more than 1,200 miles.

In the Clarksville police court $550 in bonds were forfeited in liquor cases Monday. The Leaf Chronicle says:

It seems to be a conceded fact that there are parties in this community who are engaged in selling liquor illicitly and in plain violation of a State law. The wholesale arrest referred to above is the first of any consequence which has been made since the more flagrant violations of the liquor law are alleged to have begun here.

ARBOR DAYS OF THE FARMER

Interest Added to Rural Life by Setting Out Trees to Commemorate Important Events.

Everyone ought to cultivate a friendship for trees, and along with his animal friends have a few tree friends. He could do no better to commemorate an event in his family life than to set out a tree and name it with the name of what he would remember—have arbor days of his own.

Where a family has been sentimental enough to do this you will find trees about the house named John, Henry, Susie, Clara, etc., in memory of the birth of the children. You will see a tree somewhere near the gate called the telephone tree, because it was planted the year the telephone was put in the house.

There will be another tree somewhere near that one called the free delivery tree, commemorating the year the mail was first brought to the door. There will also be some small trees, among them the auto tree, in memory of the first automobile owned by the farmer, and the air tree, to remember the thrill experienced upon seeing the first aeroplane.

What romance and interest this adds to rural or suburban life!—Farm and Home.

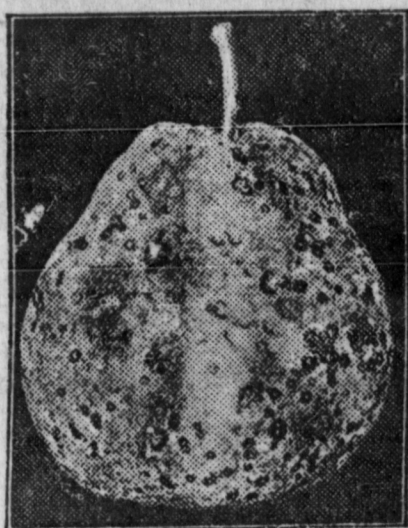

DAMAGE BY SAN JOSE SCALE

Probably No Other Insect, if Uncontrolled, Capable of Doing Greater Damage to Fruit.

The pear in common with other fruits is subject to the depredations of insects, among the most important of which are the codling moth and the San Jose scale.

The larva of the codling moth, which affects the apple to such an alarming extent, entailing a loss of millions of dollars, is also more or less injurious to the pear, though to a much less extent than to the apple.

Probably no other insect, if uncontrolled, is capable of doing greater damage to the fruit industry of this country than the San Jose scale. Nearly all kinds of deciduous fruit trees are more or less subject to its attacks. It multiplies and spreads with such great rapidity that unless controlled it is but a question of a short time until the tree is ruined and death follows. Nevertheless, this insect can be controlled at comparatively small cost so that it is no longer to be regarded as an insurmountable obstacle to the growing of fruits. Experiments have been carried on by the entomologists of the several state experiment stations and the United States department of agriculture with satisfactory results. The use of the lime-sulphur wash has come to be the generally accepted remedy.

For full information on the San Jose scale and its control, readers should apply to the secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C., for Circular 124 of the Bureau of Entomology. The control of the codling moth or pears is fully treated in Bulletin 97 Part II, of the same bureau.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES.

A strawberry patch well cared for is a popular resort in June. Don't fail to have one.

To prevent rabbits from gnawing the bark and limbs from small apple trees, spray with soap-suds.

Cut worms may be collected and killed in small areas by digging out around plants with the fingers.

Spraying is as important as either the cultivating or pruning even before the pests make an appearance.

The grape root worm has committed extensive depredations among the vineyards of Pennsylvania.

Water thoroughly when the soil is dry to the touch, but never "sprinkle" roses when they need watering.

Pruning and grafting should be attended to with the same care and judgment used in selecting seed corn.

Every time you shoot a bird you are killing an automatic insect destroyer that works for nothing and boards itself.

The lady-bugs or lady-birds are small, turtle-shaped beetles which feed upon plant lice in both the larval and adult stages.

The farmers and fruit growers of this country are losing over one billion dollars annually by reason of the ravages of insects.

Cut the branches close to the larger ones or main trunk, and cover the fresh wound with white lead and oil to keep out the air.

When the roses bloom, cut back to a strong and well developed bud, and in a short time this shoot will grow and develop into a rose.

TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—"Kentuckian"
A virile, newsworthy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—Technical World Magazine is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—A Fine Atlas
This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures, 123 pages of 5 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/4. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells separately for $3.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

TRAINING FOR THE FIREMEN

Sedalia Alderman Wanted Them to Practice for Two Days Before Each Blaze.

"A number of years ago," said an ex-Sedalian, "a substantial German-American citizen was elected to the council in Sedalia, Mo. His sound business ideas soon made him easily the strongest member of the body in point of influence, but there were times when his ideas became tangled.

"About the time the alderman in question was completing his first term there arose a somewhat general and severe criticism of the town's fire protection. After the matter had been thoroughly discussed the alderman came to the conclusion that the trouble was due to inefficiency on the part of the firemen.

"Haf it all fixed oop," the alderman confided to his colleagues at one of the meetings. "You vaste no more dime in dalk. You choost vote for mine ordinance."

"The aldermen had sufficient faith in their associate's ability to cope with the municipal problems to wait for the ordinance, which was to be introduced and passed under a suspension of the rules. They expected a satisfactory explanation when the measure should be introduced. It came.

"'Misturr President,' said the author of the measure, 'der troubles mit dis town iss dat der fire department don't bractiss enough yet. Dis ordinance vill cure der troubles. It says dat der department shall bractiss for two days before efery fire.'"

THESPIAN RECOLLECTONS

The Baseball Crank—You do not take much interest in baseball?

The Actor—No, indeed. I never could understand why it should be so hard to throw a ball straight when it is so easy to send an egg straight to the mark.

WERE NOT ON HIS LIST.

The late Rev. Horatio Stebbins of San Francisco was a man of large mind and noble powers, but more familiar with the world of intellectual and scholastic interests than with trivial and timely things, says the Cleveland Leader.

His household was blessed with a charming daughter, who grew up tall and beautiful, commanding the admiration of all who saw her. One day a visitor said to the good doctor:

"Doctor, your daughter grows more charming day by day. Why, she's a regular Gibson girl."

"Ah, thank you; thank you," replied the doctor in his best manner. When the visitor had gone, turning to his wife, the doctor asked: "M-dear, who are the Gibsons?"

IN APPREHENSION.

"I gave her a plush album on her wedding anniversary. It was one I had about the house for some time but it looked like new."

"Well?"

"Now she has found that I have an anniversary soon."

"Well, no doubt you expect her to reciprocate."

"Reciprocate is not the word. I'm afraid she will retaliate."

QUITE SO.

"Who reads poetry?"

"Numerous people."

"Bah! What good is it?"

"Do not sneer at poetry, my friend. Poetry has risen in the estimation of many since they began using it on the baseball page."

AQUATIC SPOUSE.

"Poor Benders! He has a hard time."

"Why so?"

"If his wife isn't keeping him in hot water about some of his indiscretions, she is throwing cold water on his schemes for getting rich."

WHY GREEK REPUBLIC FELL

Work of Corruptions and Dissensions Rather Than of the Man of Macedonia.

The old world has already revealed to us, in its unsealed books, the beginning and end of all its own marvelous struggles in the cause of liberty. Greece, lovely Greece, "the land of scholars and the nurse of arms," where sister republics, in fair procession, chanted the praises of liberty and the gods—where and what is she? For two thousand years the oppressor has ground her to the earth. Her arts are no more. The last sad relics of her temples are but the barracks of a ruthless soldiery. The fragments of her columns and her palaces are in the dust, yet beautiful in ruins. She fell not when the mighty were upon her. Her sons were united at Thermopylae and Marathon, and the tide of her triumph rolled back upon the Hellespont. She was conquered by her own factions. She fell by the hands of her own people. The man of Macedonia did not the work of destruction. It was already done by her own corruptions, banishments and dissensions.—Judge Story on "Our Duties to the Republic."

JOKE ON ARTHUR BRISBANE

Wilton Lackaye, the Actor, Was Astonished to Learn of Editorial Conference With Hearst.

Arthur Brisbane, who is Mr. Hearst's close confidante in the management of the New York Journal, was in company with Wilton Lackaye, the actor, on upper Broadway one afternoon. The time passed quickly and it was nearly six o'clock when the editor suddenly bestirred himself and said he would have to start downtown. Lackaye urged Brisbane to accompany him to the Lambs' club and be his guest at dinner.

"I would like to," said Brisbane, "but there is an editorial conference called at six o'clock every evening and it is imperative that I be there."

"What is the idea of this editorial conference?" asked the actor.

"A conference between various heads of departments," explained Brisbane. "We get together and shape the plans for the next day's paper."

"Do you mean to imply," said the actor, pretending amazement, "that you and Hearst get out the Journal deliberately?"

MAY CLEAN UP MYSTERY.

The mystery concerning the birthplace of the Venerable Bede, England's first historian, has a prospect of being solved if the ecclesiastical scheme for excavating the foundations near the ancient tower of St. Peter's monastery, Wearmouth, is successful. The monastery was founded in the seventh century, and is now part of the fabric of Monkwearmouth parish church. The foundations of the building, believed to have been part of the monastery, are situated near the west side of the tower, and they have never been explored. The unearthing of the crypt and of interesting tablets and memorials is probable, and this may throw light on the birthplace of the Venerable Bede.—London Graphic.

A CONSCIENTIOUS DOG.

"I'm afraid, ma'am, that dog of yours would just as soon bite me as not."

"Well," answered the lady of the house to the wandering one, "Caesar is such a nice dog in his habits that I am sure he would rather not bite an unwashed stranger, but, on the other hand, his sense of duty is so strong that he is more than apt to bite you."

BETWEEN GIRLS.

"I haven't received a love letter from Jack in three days. I think it's a shame. I shall positively be ill unless I get a love letter by tomorrow."

"Well, my dear," said the other girl, "if you need a love letter from Jack as badly as that, I have forty or fifty I'll be glad to let you have."

CAN THIS BE TRUE?

"I can't understand it, don't you know, old chap."

"What can't you understand?"

"A fellow I was talking to a little while ago said some of the greatest men in the history of the world had died without ever having seen a squash court."

Kansas Woman Helpless.

Lawrence, Kas.—Mr. J. F. Stone, of this city, says, "My wife suffered for ten years from womanly troubles, during two years of which she was totally helpless. She was examined by many physicians, some whom gave her up to die. Finally she began to take Cardui, and since then has greatly improved in health. The tonic, strengthenings, and restorative effects of Cardui, the woman's tonic on the womanly constitution, are the most valuable qualities of this popular medicine. Cardui acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Half a century of success proves that Cardui will do all that is claimed for it. Try it for your trouble."

TAKING CARE OF ONE'S SELF

Even Temper and Modest Career Will Bear Good Fruit in Character and Happiness.

Again, by actual incident, we are taught the lesson that any young man's love of pleasure and display must be constantly watched and guarded. There is no safety otherwise. It would be better that he practiced the simple life heroically, made it his pride and his glory to like the quiet, wholesome necessities of life, that he build his manhood on his self-denial rather than his self-indulgence.

Let a young man save a part of what he earns even if he has to eat plain food and wear cheap clothes; for then he is laying up capital for himself, not in money only but in character, in happiness, in future prosperity. This garish and luxurious life for a young man, this undue liking for gay and hilarious company, should be shunned as a den of snakes. A young man cannot be too strict in fashioning his life. There is such a thing as learning to like an even temper and modest career, and such a course will always bear good fruit.—Ohio State Journal.

HAS DONE WONDERFUL WORK

Miss Anna Murphy of Chicago One of the Best of the Ward Superintendents.

Miss Anna Murphy, who a year ago passed the civil service examination that entitled her to become one of the ward superintendents in Chicago, has in that time cleaned up ten square miles of the worst section of the city. Not only that, but her work has aroused the pride of the residents of the district to maintain the high standard of cleanliness so recently established. Miss Murphy undertook what seemed to be a hopeless task. She set up an office in the stockyards section, where few of the streets and none of the alleys were paved, and all the garbage imaginable, accumulation of years, lay in the alleys. Now the streets are paved, the alleys clean, garbage cans are in use as well as whitewash, and every morning Miss Murphy appears at her office, starting out with her squad of workmen on their rounds. She has been "on the job" in person continually.

GERMAN WOMEN WAGE-EARNERS.

In 1882 the women of Germany employed in occupations other than domestic service were over 4,000,000; twenty-five years later the figures stood at 8,000,000, which is an increase relatively much greater than the gain in population. While the employment of the men has increased 20 per cent. during the last twelve years, the employment of women has increased 57 per cent. during the same time. At present a full third of the economic labor of the empire is being carried on by women. Statistics recently published show that there are 9,500,000 wage-earning women in Germany, which means that nearly every second adult woman is earning her own living and directly contributing to the wealth of the country.

JUST SAVED DRIFTING BRIDGE.

At the close of every winter, when the ice from Lake Ladoga is floating down the Neva, the wooden bridge across the river which abuts on the Winter palace, St. Petersburg, is swung round, in order to enable the ice to pass unimpeded. The operation was partially accomplished at dawn, not long since, when the cables connected with the bank snapped in a gust of wind. The bridge began to drift, bodily down the Neva, and four tugs in the immediate vicinity were unable to retain it. Alarm sirens were sounded, and nearly a score more tugs came to the rescue. They just succeeded in averting a catastrophe. The structure, with its living freight of 150 workmen, was within sixty yards of the stone Nicholas bridge before it was got under control.

PARADOXICAL.

"There is one odd thing about vituperation."

"What is that?"

"A thing can be a roast and raw deal at the same time."

ENOUGH.

"Why do you look so despondent? haven't you had anything on your mind lately?"

"Yes. The family frying pan."

Hendrick, Smith and Barkley are closely bunched and all of them are claiming the advantage. It is anybody's race, but Smith was a strong card in the backing of the State administration.

The summer season is always marked by a greater activity in aeronautics, and all the month's events, disasters and developments are described in the August number of Popular Mechanics Magazine. Chief among these are the motorless man flight tests in France made with machines called "aviettes" or, as H. H. Windsor dubs them in an editorial, "flying bicycles;" new wireless installations for aeroplanes; the first hydro-monoplane; latest war dirigible of the French army; and the Vauhan airship disaster, which marks the end of the American attempt to cross the Atlantic by airship. PUTTING BURDEN ON PAPA Child's Attempt to Figure Out Relationship Was Somewhat Disconcerting.

James L. Hughes, an inspector of the Toronto board of education, was illustrating the differences in child minds, at a lecture before the City club of Chicago.

"I have a little girl whose tastes are strongly mathematical, while her brother has no gift for numbers, but still manages to think quite clearly."

"My daughter was speculating on the degrees of relationship of her two half sisters, Jane and Helen, and on other possible combinations in fractional sisterhood and brotherhood."

"Papa," she asked, "if mother were to die and you were to marry again and have some more children, what kin would they be to Jane and Helen? Would they be half sisters, too?"

"I had not replied when my small son volunteered an answer after his own kind."

"I think," he said, "if anybody's going to die, it's papa's turn this time."

SEEMED LIKE DOG'S SHADOW

Visitor in Arkansas Deceived by Spectral Appearance of the Second Quadruped.

"Yes," said the returned pilgrim the other day, "Arkansas certainly lives up to its reputation for lean and lanky creatures."

"Last week I was riding along a dusty road, when I came to a cabin set in a clearing. A lean, bony man sat out in front, smoking a corn cob and gazing at invisible things. Two or three long-legged, skinny fowls pecked listlessly about the yard and occasionally a pig built like a pumpkin seed slid between the pickets and went under the house to lie down in the shade."

"Out in the dusty road a lean, rickety dog walked around and around, bristles up, apparently growling at his shadow."

"I went in and got a drink of water. Looking back I saw the dog still going through his peculiar maneuvers."

"Say," I said to the native, "what's the matter with your dog—going mad?"

"The old man looked over that way."

"Don't see nothin' wrong with him," he said.

"But," says I, "look at him! He walks around and around, growling at his shadow."

"The native looked indifferently at a crawling grasshopper and lost interest again."

"Stranger," he said, "that ain't no shadder—that's another dog."—New York American.

WHEN NEW ENGLAND WALKED.

As to going anywhere in colonial days this generation can form slight conception of the difficulties of travel or of the strength of the travelers. Horses were not numerous and carriages were few indeed. To make a journey every one walked. The first stage between Boston and Portsmouth, N. H., was put on in 1761. It was drawn by two horses, carried three passengers, was two days going and two coming and made but one trip a week. One Mettling, a baker in Portsmouth at that period, used to walk the 66 miles to Boston in one day, buy his flour and ship it by a coaster to his home, and then walk back to Portsmouth the next day, according to Adams' history of Portsmouth. Mettling continued this practice until he was eighty years old.

ANSWER, YES.

When a New York reporter asked John D. Rockefeller, in New York the other day, if it were true that he was worth only $900,000,000, Mr. Rockefeller smiled and parried the question in his usual way.

"Be economical, young man," he said. "Work and save. Then you'll be richer some day than I am, maybe."

"Prosperity," Mr. Rockefeller continued—"prosperity is said to have ruined many a man. But, after all, my dear young friend, don't you think it must be pleasanter to be ruined by prosperity than by adversity?"

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed."

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

FASTEST GROWING BEAN.

Through the instrumentality of Fr. Field of Boston, who has no other known name, it is said, the foreign plant introduction office of the department of agriculture has come into the possession of a wonderful bean, which Fr. Field, as he dropped in upon David Fairchild, in charge of the office mentioned, likes to call the bean of the plant celebrated as the vine from which sprang Jack's celebrated beanstalk.

The bean Fr. Field had with him came from Jamaica and is known there as the canaveleta. The natives say it grows faster than a man can walk and they attribute to it fairy properties. The department will try to grow some of the vines for ornamental purposes in Washington this summer if it shall be able to endure the kind of temperature Washington offers. If the plant does not come to maturity a good bit of it is expected to make its planting worth while. Washington has lots of spots it would like to cover over with something that grows green in a hurry.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM BENJAMIN CAUDLE.

On the 22nd of June, 1912, the guileless spirit of William Benjamin, the beloved son of Doctor and Mrs. B. A. Caudle, passed from the joy of life to the empire of death.

The dawning of that summer day gave no hint of impending tragedy. Outside the stricken home the fields were carpeted with verdure and with flowers. The trees were vocal with the songs of birds. The whole world seemed replete with life. Nature made no allusion to death.

Within for days mother and father, assisted by loving friends, had striven to keep back the death angel from their dearest treasure. All that science could do, was done, all that love could give, was given.

Alas! all effort was ineffectual. At nine o'clock in the evening hope gave way to despair, for death placed its signet on the little brow. The golden thread of life was broken. Ben knew that he was going to die and was conscious to the last. He called his father to him to say "good-by." He asked to be held in his mother's arms and said that he was going to Heaven to be with grandma.

William Benjamin Caudle was born May 27th, 1907. He was an unusually bright and handsome child. For five years he was the joy and sunshine of the home. Five years of hope and promise, five years of loving care, of childlike laughter, of tender kisses from baby lips, five years waited to sleep in the cradle of a mother's loving arms to the music of her lullaby; and then good night to earth, to Heaven good morning. God needed this little jewel for a diadem.

Sleep on, dear child, and take thy rest. God's will is ours and he knows best. Though mother's lips will ever miss. The pressure of thy childish kiss. Though from her eyes the tears will start.

And anguish wring her broken heart. No dream of grief disturbs thy sleep. No pain of earth can make thee weep. For could we part the mystic veil. Which separates us from the skies. We would not see thy face so pale. But hear thy songs in Paradise.

Mother, father and friends upon whom this mantle of sorrow has fallen we would say, "Why weep you?" "Hope thou in God," who has said, "Suffer little children to come unto me—for of such is the kingdom of Heaven." Though your hearts are now desolate, hope will drive away despair if you will remember the promises of him "who gave his only begotten son"—that we might have everlasting life. Tenderness of his love for his mother and father was wonderful. Of how mother will miss the clasp of those baby arms and that dear little voice which said so many, many times each day, "I love you mother, dear," and at night when kneeling to pray he never forgot them in his prayers.

William Benjamin Caudle is at rest, this soul is anchored in a safe heaven. He died in innocence and purity. He has missed the tempests of life's passions, the strife of the passing years, he has been spared the anguish of having to see a loved one die. Today while we offer the bereaved the balm of our sympathy, his soul is filled with a flood of glory. Sleep on, dear child, though we may not see, With the vision God has given thee. We doubt not an angel holds thy hand. To guide thee on that golden strand.

Sorrowing ones, think of these things and God will fill your eyes with tears of joy instead of sorrow, and your hearts with consolation peace.

Sleep on dear child we would not have thee back again. To tread this earth of sorrow and endure life's pain.

Thy little heart will never know. The grief, the passion and the woe. Therein the heartache and the tears Which enter the fullness of life's years.

Father and mother yours is a sorrow in common with all the world. "There is no fireside howsoever defaced but has one vacant chair."

Let your sorrow bring you nearer to Heaven, for it is the home of your baby boy.

When your hearts are heavy with the poignancy of this present grief go out to that little mound, where hallowed memories will always linger and sit there in the silence, and God will send a message of comfort and hope and promise; for he has said:

"I am the resurrection and the life" Amid the murmuring fountains of life

Thy spirit, like a bounding bark, With song and gladness rife, Goes gliding to the balmy shore, That lies in sunny light before. "Glide on, glide on rejoicing. The glories of that strand, Are tinted by the golden morn. Of an immortal land. Whose lingering hope and pearly ray, Shall never fade nor fleet away. "The silvery tide will bear thee, Amid the sound and bloom. Of many a green and blessed isle, Whose shining banks illumine Each wondrous bark and pathway dim. Along the passing billows' brim.

"And soon the wind shall waft thee Among the groves that love, The emerald of their bending boughs, In life's eternal wave, And 'round thee shall the music rise, Of happier worlds and calmer skies

PIONEER MASTER OF THE AIR

Louis Mouillard May in Very Truth Be Given the Title of Father of Aviation.

The French—themselves masters of the air—call Louis Mouillard the Father of Aviation, although he never flew. Mouillard was a theorist. It is admitted today that his theories were sound, although he never put them into achieving form. Mouillard wrote two books, "The Empire of the Air" and "Flight With Fixed Wings." Only the first of these works appeared during his lifetime, and that had a small circulation. But he pointed the way to fly, and ten years after his death the Wright brothers, following principles he set down, proved that he had solved the problem.

Mouillard explained that to seek to fly by imitating the beating of a bird's wings was error; that instead of trying this impossible feat man should imitate those birds which soar with steady wings and avail themselves of air currents. If Mouillard had possessed money there is little doubt that he would have demonstrated his theory, as it has been successfully proved. The life of this remarkable man seems, on superficial view, to have been a failure. But his compatriots, recognizing his real worth, have set up a monument to his memory at Heliopolis, Egypt, that was unveiled in February last. He died in 1897. The story of his life is pathetic.—Leslie's.

WHERE IT CAUGHT HIM

The Manager—The only objection I have to this production is that the waits are so long.

Leading Man—Yes; especially for salary.

REASONABLE EXTRAVAGANCE.

Money may not bring happiness, but it's good enough to notice when it passes by. It is also worthy of keeping when once you get your hands upon it. While extravagance is absolutely wicked, to be miserly is worse, for then your money does actual harm. Put away a little "roll" as a safety umbrella for a rainy day. After that is accomplished you can ease up a bit and occasionally buy a chocolate cream or two. There is many a woman with hundreds in the bank who would blossom out with youthful charms if she were to invest a trifling sum in a new hat and some pretty shoes. Women love fluffy trappings, and if possible they should have them. Some of the luxuries are more necessary than bread and tea. Make the girl in the looking glass as sweet as you can. She's a good friend to you, and you want to treat her well.

CROCODILE LONG AT LARGE.

Loungers in the museum garden at Osaka, Japan, were astonished one afternoon of late to see a long snout protrude from a drain pipe by the side of the pathway. The snout commenced to snap at the legs of the passersby. The director of the museum was summoned, and with the aid of the gardeners and assistants the snout was secured and dragged from the drain, when it was found to belong to a large crocodile. Presumably by its birthmarks, it was recognized by the director as being a reptile which had escaped from its cage in the museum in September, 1910. It is supposed that since that date it has been exploring the drainage of the city.

ITS KIND.

WON HEARTS OF YACHTSMEN

Australian Girl Proved Herself Heroine in Storm and Is Beloved Accordingly.

Miss Minnie Taylor, just out of her teens, is regarded as the heroine of the yachting world of Melbourne, Australia, because of the part she played in an episode on the bay a recent Sunday. With a young man, Roy Aubert, who owns the motor launch Hinemoa, Miss Taylor embarked for a run on the bay, the other occupants of the launch being two youths. The weather was rather breezy, and when the boat got some distance down the wind rose and soon the launch was in difficulties. The steering gear carried away, the skylight over the engine was washed away, and the porthole glass was stove in by the waves. Aubert had to take charge of the tiller, and he placed Miss Taylor in charge of the engine. She worked hard looking after the lubrication and general running of the engine, at the same time doing all possible in keeping the water baled out as it came aboard. When the port glass was shattered, and water began to pour into the engine compartment, Miss Taylor proved very resourceful, and she plugged up the breach with her hat, using the much-despised hatpin to securely fasten her headgear in the hole.

BEYOND DREAMS OF AVARICE

Rockefeller's Wealth of Insignificance Compared to Imagination of Opium Smokers.

San Francisco officials recently burned $25,000 worth of opium. This is not a large sum of money to go up in smoke under ordinary circumstances, but when the quality of this smoke is considered it must be recognized that the dreamers who used it for putting their lives to sleep would have all been millionaires so long as the drug lasted. A young man once decided to give up opium smoking and go back to his old mother, whose heart had long since been broken by his wretched life. Acting on his good impulse he wrote her for money to come home, saying in a few words that he would try to build his life over again. On his way to his unkempt hall room from the postoffice he met an evil associate who persuaded him to have one last smoke. As soon as he had drawn a few deep inhalations of the poison he borrowed 25 cents and, rushing to the telegraph station, sent his mother this message: "Pay no attention to letter; am sending a million dollars by the next mail."

SUFFICIENTLY PUNISHED.

A painful and dramatic scene occurred in the criminal court at Budapest, Hungary, not long since, at the trial of a cashier named Emil Bruck, who was arrested some weeks ago at the instance of his employers, for having misappropriated about $750. While he was awaiting trial his three young children all died of measles within twenty-four hours, and at the opening of the case the prosecutor informed the judge that, out of consideration for this, the firm had decided to withdraw the charge, and asked for the acquittal of the prisoner. Bruck, who had not been informed of what had happened at home while he was in prison, was so overcome that he swooned away in the dock. As soon as he regained consciousness the court ordered his immediate release.

IN DOUBT.

"I want to impress upon the children of our city the necessity of exterminating the fly."

"Go to it."

"But I'm in some doubt whether to offer a dollar apiece for essays on the subject or a dollar per thousand for flies."

SLIGHT SUSPENSE.

"This question of succession in a monarchy is a precarious proposition."

"How so?"

"Because it hangs on a hair."

REASSURING.

Miss Oldgirl—Say, little boy, will your dog bite me?

Little Boy—No, ma'am; he's too old to try and bite anything tough.

FORMED BY CIRCUMSTANCES.

"How angular that trust magnate is!"

"No wonder. He has been shaped by circumstances."

LITERATURE THAT IS LIFE

Admirer of Charles Dickens Would Have Modern Writers Copy His Style Closer.

Some one has said of Charles Dickens that he was not afraid of being melodramatic. Is not one fault of our more modern literature that it is too faultless? There is a certain snobbish tyranny of taste which palliates. Woodrow Wilson has said that taste is undemocratic. The culture which cannot bear contact with coarseness is much to blame for our social maladjustments, he said. So the literary taste which sympathizes not with the Rabelaisian humor and disdains redundant emotion, is at odds with life.

People live not by repression. Asceticism forms but a very small part of life. And it is asceticism to cut out emotion, even excess emotion, with its boisterous laughter and too easy tears.

Heaven forbid that from the one extreme of chastened, white corpuscle "style" the other extreme of affected forcefulness—of slang and unreal realism—should be reached. There is too much of that now. It will never satisfy. It will not set a true standard or mark a literary epoch. But may we have more of the big artist work which is not afraid to be as untrampled and as filled with caricature as life itself is!—Kansas City Star.

HIS KIND

Jones—So your son is now going to college, eh?

Smith—Yes; he finally located one where they would not allow the studies to interfere with athletics.

EAT LESS MEAT IN VIENNA.

In the course of the proceedings of the Congress of Food and Provisions recently held in Vienna an interesting paper was read dealing with the quantities of food required for various communities. Thus, according to the Vienna correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical association, the population of Vienna consumes daily 1,700,000 pints of milk and 7,000,000 pounds of loaves, rolls, white and brown bread and 800,000 eggs. The yearly consumption of meat was in 1910 280,000,000 pounds and 6,250,000 pounds of horse meat besides. Over 13,000,000 pounds of poultry and an equal quantity of venison and over 7,000,000 pounds of fish are sold at the market in Vienna. During the last ten years the consumption of meat has not increased at the same rates as the population; the relative quantity of meat per head has fallen by 2.5 per cent., while the sale of cereals and vegetables is very extensive and constantly increasing in relation to the increase of population.

TO ASPHYXIAE BANDITS.

As a consequence of the sieges near Paris, the possibility is being considered of arresting bandits in hiding by more practical means than those hitherto employed. To this end a study is being made at the municipal laboratory of asphyxiating liquids, which could be thrown into the bandits' retreats, and compel them to come out into the open. Experiments will be made with a large phial, into which will be poured carbonated sulphur, covered with a thin layer of ether. It is believed that several of these bombs thrown among the besieged will oblige them to come out in a condition in which they can easily be overpowered.

HOW HE GOT IT.

Visitor—So you were acquainted with the great financier who was raised here? As usual, I suppose, you gave him the first dollar he ever earned?

Native—No; he took away from me the first dollar I ever earned.

The Latest Machine Invented

The Prosperity Collar Moulder is and has been in use at Hopkinsville Steam Laundry for two months. The machine spoken of will eliminate broken edges on fold collars, gives space for tie to slide, and collar with nice oval edge looks better and feels better than the saw edge kind. BUTTERMILK CHEESE IS NEW Great Amount of Waste at Creameries Would Furnish Large Supply of Palatable Food.

(By J. L. SAMMIS.)
Buttermilk cheese is a new product obtained by curdling buttermilk with heat, draining the curd and adding salt. Large amounts of buttermilk are wasted every year at creameries.
If this were made into buttermilk cheese it would furnish a large supply of palatable food, equal in food value,

Easily Made Drain Rack.

pound for pound, to lean beefsteak.
It can be sold profitably at half the price of meat.

To make buttermilk cheese, the buttermilk is curdled by heating to 80 degrees, and left undisturbed for an hour. It is then heated to 130 degrees and, after standing quiet for about an hour, the clear whey is drawn off the curd, and the latter is placed on a draining rack, which is covered with cheesecloth. Here it remains half a day or over night, until as dry as desired, when it is salted with one and one-half pounds of salt per hundred pounds of curd, and is ready for use.
Buttermilk cheese can be made from buttermilk from cream which was pasteurized before ripening, or the buttermilk may be pasteurized during the process of cheesemaking, in either case insuring the absence of disease germs.

Where only a few pounds of buttermilk cheese are made at a time, as on a farm or for home use, the buttermilk can be heated in a pail or in a clean new wash boiler on the stove.
After the second heating, i. e., to 130 degrees, if the curd has settled, the whey can be mostly poured off by tipping the pail, and the curd poured into a small cheesecloth bag to drain.
If the curd is floating, it can be dipped off the surface of the whey, with a dipper or large spoon and put in the bag to drain. A small wooden draining rack a foot square and five or six inches deep, with the bottom made of one-fourth of an inch mesh galvanz-ized or tinned iron wire netting and covered with cheesecloth, is useful for draining small amounts of buttermilk cheese.

WHERE AYRSHIRE DOES WELL

Scottish Breed Thrives Exceptionally Well on Rough Pastures of Inferior Character.

Under conditions where the land is rough and stony and pasture rather poor, no breed will give as good returns as the Ayrshire. In her native home, Scotland, she inherited

Ayrshire Cow With Big Record.

sturdy constitution and an independence which enables her to hunt for a living, but she likewise responds well to good treatment.

The Ayrshire gives a medium flow of milk of average richness, especially adapted for cheese-making on account of its small fat globules, which retard the creaming process—a fact which has designated her as the cheese-material cow.

She is medium in size, weighing about 1,000 pounds, and is usually red and white, or brown and white, the white predominating. She is a stylish, alert cow, the backward sweep of the horns giving her a distinguished appearance.

Keep Calves Well Bedded.
The stomach of the little calf is very sensitive and easily ruined. Nothing will do it quicker than keeping the animal confined in a wet, dirty pen. Clean the calf pen often and bed it with a liberal supply of dry straw often. It is no little labor to keep a stall where several calves run clean and dry, but there is no other way if you want to raise good calves.
Eternal vigilance is the price of everything good in the stock line.

Silage for Cows.
A yield of 12 tons of silage may easily be obtained from one acre of corn. Allowing 30 pounds of silage as a daily ration, one acre of corn will furnish four cows with silage for 200 days.

Mrs. Vest Felt Like Crying.

Wallace, Va.—Mrs. Mary Vest, of this place, says, "I hadn't been very well for three years, and at last was taken bad. I could not stand on my feet, I had such pains. I ached all over. I felt like crying all the time.
Mother insisted on my trying Cardui.
Now I feel well, and do not need all my housework." No medicine for weak and ailing women, has been so successful as Cardui. It goes to the spot, relieving pain and distress, and building up womanly strength,
in a way that will surely please you.
Only try it once.

A Cash Offer.

The Kentuckian has made a special clubbing rate with The Memphis Weekly Commercial Appeal by which we will furnish both papers for one year for the very low subscription price of $2.25. The Commercial Appeal is one of the largest and best papers in the South, and we hope to receive many new subscriptions on this offer: $2.25 cash for both papers.

INJURY TO APPLES BY SPRAY

Orchardists Have Taken Up Sulphur Compounds to Prevent Damage to Fruit and Foliage.

The most striking thing that has taken place in apple spraying since the introduction of Bordeaux mixture for the control of apple diseases, said an official of the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture, recently, is the change from the copper to the sulphate compounds that has been brought about largely through the experiments of this office. The lime-sulphur solution is the leading one in use, though the self-boiled lime-sulphur and the iron sulphid are still under investigation.

The spray russetting of the fruit by copper poisoning and the foliage injury due to the same cause had become so serious that considerable attention was devoted during the seasons of 1909 and 1910 to testing various spray mixtures. Exceptionally beautiful fruit, in most cases free from fungous spots and diseases, was obtained from the experimental plots.
As a result, orchardists have taken up the spraying with sulphur compounds as a solution of this important difficulty.

Some injury has occurred where mixture was used too strong or in cloudy weather. This was mostly on the tender foliage, and in hardly any case was it serious. The lime-sulphur solution, being the most convenient and satisfactory to use, has been accepted by orchardists for spraying apples.

Where it has been combined with the arsenate of lead, generally excellent results have been obtained with the combined spray; but in a few cases, undoubtedly owing to inefficient agitation, there has been some slight burning of the fruit, and in still fewer instances, of the foliage. It is now known to be possible for the orchardists to make the lime-sulphur solution by boiling these materials on the farm, or it can be purchased on the market already prepared.

DEVICE FOR HOLDING BASKET

Ends of Strong Manila Cord of Convenient Length Fastened to Hook Supports Receptacle.

For the picking of fruits, especially apples and pears, many devices have been used, and new ones are tried every year. Doubtless the pivot-handled half-bushel basket is the most popular receptacle for fruit picked

Device for Holding Basket.

among the branches on the inside of the tree.

One difficulty with the basket is that it is awkward to handle when hung on the usual double wire hook. To obviate this difficulty the device illustrated herewith has been found effective, says
the Orange Judd Farmer. Both ends of a stout manila cord of any convenient length are fastened to a hook.
The cord is then passed around the basket handle and the hook thrown over a limb and caught around the new vertical cord, as shown.

The hook, while secure, can be instantly released, either from the limb or the basket, and yet they will "stay put" as long as desired.

Bees and Fruit.

Bees and fruit go well together. The bees gather honey from the blossoms and in return fertilize them. The hum of these industrious workers in the orchard foretells rich harvests. Under the trees is a good place for the hives.

HORTICULTURAL

NOTES

The currant worm makes its appearance as soon as warm weather sets in.

Pears should not be cultivated. Best to keep them in grass after the fourth year.

Hellebore is excellent for the destruction of slugs, worms and caterpillars.

Growing grains or allowing stock to pasture in the orchard is not good orcharding.

Soot dusted on melon plants when the leaves are wet with dew discourages insects.

For most fungous and insect enemies spraying is a prevention rather than a remedy.

The presence of the currant borer may be known by the leaves withering and turning yellow.

Tools to be used in cultivating the orchard should be determined by the kind of soil in the orchard.

Experienced growers do not pick berries for market when the fruit is wet, and they keep the crates in a cool place, out of the sun.

Surplus suckers in raspberries or red raspberry patches should be treated just like weeds, leaving only enough shoots for next year's fruiting.

The Moguls came home Thursday and lost another game to Paducah by 7 to 4. Paducah outthit Hopkinsville in a game railroaded through in an hour and a half. This loss dropped the Moguls to fifth place. Another game was played yesterday and the third is scheduled for today. The attendance has shown a great falling off, but the loyal fans are indulgent and are waiting for a turn in the tide, which may come today.

Birmingham beat Atlanta in a double-header at Atlanta Thursday. Mike Lyons played left field for Atlanta and got one hit out of 6 times at bat.

In the first of a series of three games for the amateur baseball championship of Western Kentucky, Madisonville defeated Owensboro Thursday in a pretty ten inning game by the score of 4 to 3. McArthur and Eblen formed the battery for Madisonville, while Markham and Ling worked for Owensboro.

FIRST GREEK LETTER FRAT

Was Organized at the College of William and Mary in Days of the Revolution.

Nowadays there are Greek letter societies in not only our colleges but our fitting schools the country over. They are the first fraternities that tens of thousands of men join. And the first society of them all—and it is still flourishing—was the Phi Beta Kappa, organized at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., in the days of the American Revolution. The earliest records of this fraternity, now in possession of the Virginia Historical society, show that it was organized December 5, 1776, and possessed a motto, a medal or badge substantially identical with its present one, a grip, a seal, a constitution, a form of initiation, regular meetings, literary exercises, social occasions, the bond of brotherhood and the idea of expansion to other literary institutions.

Its three Greek letters, Phi, Beta and Kappa, are the initials of three Greek words meaning "Philosophy the Guide of Life." At least this was the statement made in 1831, during the anti-Masonic agitation, under the influence of which the Harvard society relinquished its secrets. Many of its founders at William and Mary became famous men, John Marshall, afterward chief justice of the United States Supreme court, being one of them.
